Commissioned By: Christian Council of Tanzania (CCT)

1.0 INTRODUCTION

Christian Council of Tanzania (CCT) is Faith Based Organization established in 1934 and re-registered as CCT in 1962. For decades, CCT has been working with different development partners both locally and internationally to meet objectives of its strategic plan. It has been working in the area of community development, human rights and access to legal aid, gender-based violence, peace and justice, Interfaith relation and ecumenism and public health. CCT use an integrated approach that include mobilization of local communities through microfinance initiatives to respond to poverty, Gender Based Violence, corruption, environmental degradation, health and HIV/AIDS related challenges. CCT has also adopted Result Based Management (RBM) approaches as a principal way by which all interventions are managed.

1.1 The following is brief description of the Church based advocacy work on human rights and youth empowerment

CCT Church Based advocacy focuses on influencing the policies and practices of the government of Tanzania for equitable and sustainable service for peaceful co-existence in the country. It takes a pro-poor perspective to the policy debates in the country, particularly around natural resource governance and promotes actions that favor freedom of religion and peaceful co-existence. The strategies used includes conducting of research, producing and dissemination of simple policy briefs, policy analysis, dialogue meetings with relevant stakeholders, producing of media programs, networking with different stakeholders, lobbying and awareness raising on different issue.

Furthermore, the project was designed to empower students with career guidance and counselling so that they can plan their career and develop acceptable behavior. The project was designed to carry out the ToT training to 34 teachers/pastors (youth work), who subsequently train 400 advisory teachers (2 per school) in all areas of the country. the career guidance and Counselling components includes Job orientation (employment opportunities, academic future planning, application documents), risk behavior management (early school leaving, early pregnancy, crime, extremism), self-organization (own scope for action, self-control, time management). The project included refresher training for 216 counseling teachers and pastors who were previously trained to reach students with career guidance and counselling.

1.2 The expected results of the Project

1.2.1 The Development Goal is: Improved social justice and integrity of creation in Tanzania

1.2.2: Objectives

Objective 1: By the end of the project, the national legal framework and its implementation have been improved with a view to compliance with human rights standards.

Indicators:

- I. At least 54 of the 90 dioceses (60%) contribute through their engagement in the committees (interreligious committees, national advocacy team) to the positive influence of national framework conditions.
- II. At least 4 out of 10 entries for laws or legislative proposals, guidelines or measures are reflected in the revision of those by the relevant authorities.

- III. Sustainable solutions were developed for 70% of the documented conflicts (e.g. land and inheritance law, GBV, interreligious conflict).

Objective 2: By the end of the project, students from 149 secondary schools and 51 vocational training centers/colleges will make goal-oriented strategic decisions for their individual life planning

Indicators

- I. At least 70 secondary schools and 30 vocational training centres/colleges perform professional career counseling and counseling services in established structures (premises, training material, counseling structure, trained counseling teachers).
- II. At least 12,000 pupils (50% f) have a detailed plan for their individual life planning (career orientation, academic career, self-management)

1.3 Management of the project:

The project is managed under the CCT Directorate of Development Program and Advocacy and it is implemented by three CCT programs which are Youth Empowerment, Interfaith program and Policy Analysis, Advocacy and Good governance Program.

Monitoring and evaluation of this project is coordinated by the CCT Planning, Monitoring and Evaluation unit. The PME unit is responsible for follow up of implemented activities to ensure compliance with approved plans but also collection of qualitative and quantitative data and working closely with directorate of Development Programs and Advocacy for reporting writing and reporting. The PME unit is also responsible for provision of technical advice for improvement in order to ensure the project results are reached.

As a continuation of existing project, this project is working with district coordinators at different regions to coordination and reporting through our online data systems. Furthermore, at each selected school for career guidance, the capacitated teachers are responsible for reporting their implementation on monthly basis by entering the requested information into the database.

PME unit coordinate capturing of quantitative data through Web based M&E system and qualitative data on quarterly basis through qualitative data collection meetings with national advocacy team, Interfaith Committees, VICOBA members and Paralegals in order to capture information which measures CCT contribution on policy/guideline changes for improvement of human rights.

2.0 EVALUATION

2.1 Purpose of the Evaluation

The purpose of this project evaluation is to assess the performance of the project and capture project achievements, challenges and best practices to inform future similar programming; learning of what worked well/not sufficient and use this for deciding on amending plans for the remaining period; realize what areas need more attention. The evaluation will work to measure the contribution of CCT through National Advocacy Committee and regional interfaith committees on improvement of human rights standards through changes in laws, policies or guidelines at various levels. The evaluation will also look at how previously established projects of VICOBA and Paralegals have influence or are integrated within the current project. The evaluation will clarify the contribution of BfdW and other stakeholders of the program including CCT management and offer a learning aspect. The evaluation will also identify key lessons learned, challenges and the flexibility of the project to adapt current socio-economic and political changes of the country.

2.2 Specific Objectives of the Evaluation

The specific objectives of the evaluation are

- I. Identify intended and unintended changes brought by the project,
- II. Assess the sustainability of the project outcomes and impact

Are they satisfied? Was it good? If yes, what was good and why? If not, what was not good and why? what and how to improve.
- Assess at which level are the project goals, objectives and indicators (detailed quantitative and qualitative data for every indicator) achieved or are likely to be achieved by the end of the project period? Why / Why not?
- What is the perception on the project by the district, regional and national administration, the social service providers and the beneficiaries? Is the project supporting the government to reach its goals? Should the project continue, what should be improved? why? and how to improve?
- What changes has the project brought at national and local levels? Consider lives of the final beneficiaries, policy change, behavioral and attitude change. The changes could be directly or indirectly, positive or negative, intended or unintended, macro or micro.

iii.) Effectiveness

- How effective were the management processes in supporting delivery?
- Was the set up management processes appropriate?
- To which extent are the project objective achieved or are likely to be achieved by the end of the project period -within budget and timely?
- How effective were the project implementation approaches and strategies?
- How effective was the project advocacy engagement work?
- To what extent has the interventions of this objective contributed to enhancing church's advocacy role, especially in human rights related issues?
- Are the beneficiaries and stakeholders satisfied with the implementation approaches and results? Why? /Why not?

iv). Efficiency

- Were the project funds used in the most economic manner? Why/Why not?
- Were the processes efficient to get the result required?
- Were the methods, processes, actors involved the most useful/appropriate to achieve the projects objectives? Why / Why not? What could have been done differently to be more effective? What to be improved?
- To what extent did the management, and decision-making structures of the project support the efficiency of the project?
- Did the project face any obstacles (financial, administratively, managerial) and to what extent has this affected its efficiency?
- How effective was the project advocacy to improve national frames and guideline? What could have been done differently?
- How effective did CCT network with other organizations in realizing project objectives and indicators? What could have been done differently?
- Are CCTs Management team capacities effective and appropriate to provide financial and technical support to the national advocacy team, the. IR committees and the CCT project staff? Why? / Why not?
- To what extent did factors such as resources, staff remuneration, management, staff and Board's capacity, working relationships within the team, working relationships with partners, and donors, learning processes such as self-evaluation/appraisal, coordination and exchange with related projects influence the effectiveness of the project?

v). Sustainability

- How strong is the level of ownership of the projects intervention by the relevant beneficiaries and other stakeholders?
- What is the level of capacity and commitment from the church, communities and other stakeholders to ensure sustainability of the results achieved?
- What could be done differently to strengthen sustainability?
- Describe key factors that will require attention in order to improve prospects of sustainability of Project outcomes and the potential for replication of the approach?
- To what extent are the positive changes of the project likely to continue beyond the end of the project period?
- How likely will the project positive changes and impact continue at national level after end of donor funding?

- How strong is CCTs advocacy capacity to ensure continued policy engagement with relevant institutions at local, national, regional and international levels?
- Is there any structures /systems / processes and capacities at CCT (organizational set up and implementation processes) to assure sustainability? is there need for improvement (details required) to continue – with or without external funding?

Objective 2: Students from 149 secondary schools and 51 vocational training centers/colleges will make goal-oriented strategic decisions for their individual life planning

i) Relevance

- Have the interventions been relevant to youths both girls and boys, teachers, parents, church and other stakeholders?
- Was the project relevant to the identified needs of the youths (boys, girls, vulnerable youths and disabled)?
- To what extent are the project activities and outputs consistent with the intended goal, project objective and indicators? Are the objectives still valid?
- Are the activities and outputs of the project consistent with the intended impacts and effects?
- Were the inputs and strategies identified, realistic, appropriate and adequate to achieve the results?
- To what extent are the intended outcome and the relevant outputs aligned with CCT’s mandate?
- To what extent do the intended outcome and the relevant outputs address national priorities?
- Has CCT been able to adapt its programming to the changing socio-economic context to address priority needs by youths, schools, parents, church and the community.
- To what extent this objective of the project still valid?
- How are the project interventions aligned to the government’s short and long-term plans and strategies (legal frameworks)?

ii) Impact

- Did the project face any obstacles (financial, administratively, managerial) and to what extent has this affected its efficiency? How to solve, improve?
- What were the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats to the project implementation process?

v). Sustainability

- How strong is the level of ownership of the project by the relevant students, teachers, parents and other stakeholders?
- What is the level of capacity and commitment from the schools, dioceses/churches, communities and other stakeholders to ensure sustainability of the results achieved?
- What could be done to strengthen sustainability of career guidance and counselling?
- Describe key factors that will require attention in order to improve prospects of sustainability of career guidance and counselling outcomes and the potential for replication of the approach.
- Is there any structures /systems / processes and capacities at CCT (organizational set up and implementation processes) to assure sustainability? is there need for improvement (details required) to continue – with or without external funding?
- To what extent are the positive changes of the project likely to continue beyond the end of the project period?

4.0 EVALUATION DELIVARABLES

Deliverables of end line evaluation should include the following:

- a) Inception report; this should include the following items; Understanding of the issues and questions raised in the ToR, Data sources; how to assess the questions in the ToR, Research methodology, including suggested sample and size, Schedule of activities and traveling (timeline), Proposal for a learning event/validation of evaluation findings, Detailed budget, appropriate validated draft data collection tools (e.g., methodological guidelines, group interview questions)
 - Any suggested improvements to existing evaluation scope, as outlined in these terms of reference
- b) Presentation of preliminary draft report by PowerPoint presentation with CCT staff.
- c) Draft evaluation report written in English; the report should be jargon free, clear and simply written. The main report should not exceed 25 pages (excluding annexures, etc.) and should include an executive summary, brief project background and recommendations. The report should be accompanied with one (1) electronic file of the clean (final) qualitative and quantitative data collected.
- d) Final evaluation report
 - Technical information (e.g., counselling guideline, career development tools and amended policies/laws) should be included in appendices
 - Detailed analysis of project achievements (both qualitative and quantitative) by considering project objectives and indicators should always be backed up with relevant data, with reference to the data source.

- Recommendations should be specific and include relevant details for how they might be implemented.

5.0 APPROACH/METHODOLOGY

5.1 Approach

The evaluation process will be guided by the approved program documents, implementation process and progress. The process will measure the performance and achievements focusing on outputs (targets and actual achievements), relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impact, and sustainability.

The process will be participatory and will involve desk review field research in order to document CCT contribution on policy/law reformation and career development of youths and will seek to engage key stakeholders at appropriate stages. These will include, CCT Management staff, project implementation staff, National advocacy committee and regional interfaith committees, ToT trained teachers, youths/students and, member churches and organizations, government departments and other collaborating agencies.

There will be continuous consultations and feedback between CCT and evaluator as the process progresses. This will ensure that the process responds to the desired outcomes, issues are handled appropriately and in a timely manner and with confidentiality. In addition, the consultants will provide information on any emerging issues and obtain any additional information they may require for effective execution of the assignment

5.2. Methodology

The evaluation will involve both qualitative and quantitative methodologies. The evaluation team is expected to apply a mixed-method approach collecting both quantitative and qualitative data to validate and triangulate data, as well as employ contribution analysis approach.

The evaluation will provide quantitative and qualitative data through the following methods:

- Desk study and review of all relevant project documentation including project proposal, result matrix, annual work-plans, semiannual reports, CCT web-based database, and any other relevant documents.
- In depth interviews to gather primary data from key stakeholders such as CCT member churches, Interfaith leaders, ToT trained teachers, counselors, youths and implementing partners.
- Focus Group discussion with project beneficiaries and other stakeholders (May include faith leaders, counselors, students, paralegals, VICOBA members etc)
- Interviews with relevant key informants such as government officials, Church leaders, heads of schools, Counselors, ToT trained teachers, students' associations etc.
- Direct observations during field visits to selected sites.

Final evaluation report

The final report shall be written in English (maximum 25 pages excluding annexes) with the following contents:

1. Key data of the evaluation

2. Executive summary: a tightly drafted, to-the-point, free-standing document (no more than 5 pages), including the key issues of the evaluation, main analytical points, conclusions, lessons learnt and recommendations.
3. Introduction: purpose of the evaluation, evaluation scope and key questions. Short description of the project evaluated and relevant frame conditions
4. Evaluation design/methodology
5. Key results/findings: with regard to the questions pointed out in the TOR/inception report (including project and context analysis), Assessment of the extent to which issues of equity and gender are incorporated in the project.
6. Conclusions based on evidence and analysis.
7. Recommendations regarding future steps/activities/follow-up – carefully targeted to the appropriate audiences at all levels, relevant and feasible (if possible, for each conclusion a recommendation).
8. Lessons learnt.
9. Annexes (TOR, list of persons/organizations consulted, gender distribution and social representation of the respondents, literature and documentation consulted, evaluation tools, recommendation table
10. Implementation plan
11. Success stories as an annex.
